Substance Use and Misuse Research

The Ohio State University College of Social Work invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position (open rank) beginning August 2019. Ohio State, through its Discovery Theme Initiative, is currently investing in transdisciplinary, innovative, collaborative and impactful faculty. Consistent with this institutional spirit of discovery, the college recently significantly invested in research infrastructure and is committed to advancing science aimed at solving major global challenges. We are recruiting exceptional candidates from social work and related disciplines, and our preference is for candidates with demonstrated strong research and scholarship capacity with diverse populations. In addition to research and scholarship, we seek candidates committed to excellence in teaching and student mentorship, particularly diverse student populations. The college offers a host of innovative teaching options at the undergraduate, MSW and PhD level, including traditional and online formats.

Candidates' scholarship should focus on substance use and misuse issues, which cut across the continuum from prevention to recovery in myriad disciplines. Successful junior candidates will have a well-defined research agenda and evidence of scholarship; senior faculty candidates will have an externally-funded research program and demonstrate excellence in research, teaching and mentorship.

The Ohio State University recognizes that diversity and inclusion are the foundation of our excellence; the College of Social Work recognizes that our strength rests in part on the diversity of our faculty, staff and students. We, therefore, encourage applicants whose backgrounds, experiences, knowledge and talents will promote an inclusive culture as diversity and social justice are central to our mission.

HISTORY

The Ohio State University College of Social Work is the oldest continuously accredited public social work program in the United States. The Ohio State University is recognized as one of the world's greatest public research and teaching universities with an extensive doctoral/ research agenda. Ohio State is located in Columbus—Ohio's vibrant state capital, the largest city in Ohio and the 15th largest city in the nation. Successful candidates will join our 31 faculty and engage with our student body of about 450 BSSW-, 645 MSW- and 35 doctoral-level students. For more information, visit our website at csw.osu.edu.
